

Comment to the Ex-Parte Revision to RM-11306

In my comments on the Petition for Rule Making RM-11306 filed over a year ago I stated that there were many flaws in the ARRL petition. The ARRL is now trying to "salvage" some portion of that proposal in its Ex-Parte Revision. The latest twist in the ARRL filings is an "erratum" that supposedly conveys the true desires of the "National Association for Amateur Radio" regarding the regulation of the amateur bands by bandwidth rather than mode.

I strongly urge the Commission to dismiss this entire Petition, which is both misguided and poorly written. I also must note that, although I remain a Life Member of the ARRL, the League's actions concerning this Petition are disgraceful to the Amateur Radio Service.
